START MEMO NOM-POST-OBJ:

Our primary objective is to renew our contact with a rising star within the French Socialist Party, at a particular crucial time for the future of that party as it develops its platform and goals in preparation for the 1997 Presidential and legislative elections. At the same time, in the longer term, we would like to give Albertini, a specialist of European and environmental issues, exposure to the U.S. A previous nominee from the French Socialist Party returned from his trip to the U.S. with the conviction that the Socialist Party had previously "overlooked" the importance of the bilateral U.S.-French relationship. Lack of exposure to the U.S. explains general antagonism towards the U.S. way of life. We believe Albertini will occupy important functions if the Socialists return to power and should therefore acquire greater insight into U.S. policies.

END MEMO NOM-POST-OBJ:

START MEMO NOM-POST-RCMD:

Given Albertini's intellectual pedigree and professional and political experience, we believe he would greatly gain from participation into the European Program: "U.S. Foreign Policy Challenges"

START MEMO NOMINATING-JUSTIFICATION:

Mr. Albertini has advanced quickly within the elite of the French civil service. A graduate of the prestigious French National School of Administration ENA, he was picked out as one of the most promising graduates of his class by one of the best "headhunters" in French political circles, former European Affairs Minister Pierre Moscovici. He then followed the typical French bureaucratic elite curriculum, first at one of France's most prestigious administrative bodies, the French Accounting Court (similar to the GAO), and then in three different ministries, at senior levels, including Chief-of-Staff.

His previous government experience on issues key to ongoing and future U.S. trade policy objectives, i.e. trade, European Affairs and the environment, combined with his intellectual curiosity and his good standing within the Socialist Party, make him an obvious choice for the IV Program.

START MEMO NOMINATING-JUSTIFICATION:
At 33, Pierre France is the youngest of the region-wide reporter team at Dernieres Nouvelles d'Alsace (DNA - circul.
224,000), the largest regional daily newspaper in Alsace.
While he entered that professional circle as a specialist in multimedia/Internet issues, he also writes articles on youth at risk, ethnic ghettos in Alsatian suburbs, crime, Turkey and Europe, the Euromcorps and Afghanistan, and even articles on American politics, based on interviews with visiting Americans (e.g., the widow of Gene Kelly). Pierre France speaks English, but only traveled once to the United States for three weeks as a tourist in September 2000. While preparing a Master's degree at the Strasbourg School of Journalism, he did an internship at DNA, then a short stint as a free-lance journalist there, before being hired as a full-time DNA journalist.

Pierre France's versatility leads his Chief Editor, former Franco-American Foundation grantee, to place great hopes in his career. Chief Editor Dominique Jung credits Pierre France with "extensive intellectual curiosity and dynamism, willing and able to report on a wide variety of subjects." Jung thinks his young charge would absorb a great deal from an International Visitor experience. Disarmingly unassuming at first blush, Pierre France is also a semi-professional actor in an improvisation theater group, and a fiction writer (unpublished so far). His interests range far beyond multimedia and the arts; he also has a keen interest in social and international issues, especially international crime, and would greatly benefit from an IV experience in the United States.

With the Schengen Information Center, the Franco-German Center for Police Cooperation, the Council of Europe's GRECO (Group of States Against Corruption), and its University's new degree in combating money-laundering, Strasbourg brings together many experts in international crime. Pierre France is poised to pull these strands together in his reporting. Insights gained from an IV program could help inform his reporting in a way that could foster our transatlantic cooperation on various issues.
